

Abstract:

A simple design of a compact probe-fed stacked patch antenna is proposed for broadband applications. The antenna design is presented on the basis of simulation results. Possibility of achieving as much as 24% impedance bandwidth ($SWR < 2$) from a compact antenna is revealed.