Characterization of polycyclohexene by high field carbon-13 NMR spectroscopy.

Abstract

The 13C NMR spectrum of polycyclohexene was recorded at 50.5 MHz and interpreted in terms of its different stereoisomers. The ratio of the threo to erythro forms was 2:1, and the spectrum was also sensitive to the tacticity.